

Abstract of the Disclosure

A semiconductor substrate with integrated circuit devices on its front side and a high thermal conductivity layer such as diamond on its back side, with components such as capacitors embedded in the high thermal conductivity layer and coupled to the front side integrated circuits with vias through the substrate.